

Sprint 4 burndown chart

This burndown chart illustrates the completion of story points across our team's sprint from July 23 to August 3. Starting at 40 story points, the chart shows a consistent decrease, aligning closely with the ideal burndown trajectory. The chart reflects our team's adaptability and effective sprint management, ensuring that we remained on track to achieve our sprint goals by the designated end date.

This sprint concluded with a velocity of 40 story points, again consistent with the velocity in the previous sprints. This reflects our team's efficiency and ability to handle workload, contributing significantly to the advancement of our application. As this is the final sprint, the velocity showcases our strong finish and commitment to delivering a robust product.